

Nova Scotia SPCA
College of Animal Welfare

Nova Scotia SPCA Provincial Office
7 Scarfe Court
Dartmouth, Nova Scotia
B3B 1W4

Date: February 3, 2026
For Immediate Release

Nova Scotia's Second Veterinary Technician Program Launches

Dartmouth, NS – The Nova Scotia SPCA College of Animal Welfare is taking applications for the inaugural Veterinary Technician class expected to start this spring.

“The two-year Veterinary Technician Program prepares students for a career in the animal care industry,” says college vice-president, Marni Tuttle. “Students will develop skills to assist veterinarians in treating animals by administering medications, testing blood and other samples, taking X-rays, administering anesthesia and monitoring patients during and after surgery.”

The program will take place at the newly renovated college in Burnside. Students will engage in in-class learning, gain hands-on experience, and complete 240 hours of a clinical internship.

Prerequisites for the program include a grade 12 diploma, adult diploma, or GED, as well as a recommended average of 75% or higher in each of the following courses: Grade 12 English, Grade 12 Academic Math or Pre-Calculus, Grade 11 or 12 Biology, and Grade 11 or 12 Chemistry.

“This is exciting growth from our veterinary assistant program, which we have been running for five years now, and will continue to offer,” says Tuttle. “Having a second veterinary technician program being offered in Nova Scotia will make a significant impact on animal welfare in our region.”

Applicants can apply now at www.spaccollege.ca for an expected start date of May 2026 and graduation in June 2028. The program is still pending approval from the Department of Advanced Education and Labour once the renovations are complete

-30-

About the Nova Scotia SPCA

Proudly following no-kill principles, the Nova Scotia SPCA is a registered charity that helps companion animals in need. In 2024, approximately 24,000 pets were helped through animal rescue, progressive programs, and rehoming opportunities. They do not receive any government funding for their shelters, so the SPCA relies on community support to help care for local pets in need. To learn more, visit www.novascotiaspca.ca.

About the Nova Scotia SPCA College of Animal Welfare

The Nova Scotia SPCA College is committed to providing high-quality education to raise standards in animal welfare. The programs offer an educational environment of small classes, hands-on experience in both shelter and hospital settings, and credentialed instructors. Students are taught academic excellence in balance with skills for overall wellness. Students graduate job-ready with a passion for their industry. The Nova Scotia SPCA college responds to community and business needs by providing excellence in animal welfare education. The college is active in supporting and creating a diverse and inclusive workforce in the animal welfare industry. To learn more, visit www.spaccollege.ca

For more information:

Sarah Lyon
Chief Communications and Marketing Officer, Nova Scotia SPCA
902-229-8620
media@spcans.ca

Available for interviews:

Marni Tuttle, Vice-President, Nova Scotia SPCA College of Animal Welfare

Dr. Mike West, Director of Veterinary Education Programs, Nova Scotia SPCA College of Animal Welfare